

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A nickel plating layer having a thickness within a range of 1.0 to 4.0 μm is formed in a terminal portion of a circuit board as an underlying plating layer. After a soldering bump
5 is formed on the underlying plating layer, the soldering bump is connected to an external terminal formed in an external circuit.

09374048-10101
TOTOT 84042550